

Northern Pacific Railway Directory: Fargo, North Dakota 1896-1916

I researched and wrote this book from Fargo, North Dakota and Moorhead, Minnesota city directories and United State census records. The Northern Pacific Railroad in Fargo is of interest because so many immigrants from various nations helped to make it run. People from Sweden, Lithuania, Germany, England, Scotland, and Germany were essential to the building and development of the Northern Pacific. For each employee I researched, I provided as much information as possible about his family, where he came to Fargo from, and his particular job. It will be of interest to family and immigration enthusiasts as a springboard to further research.
